

REPORTING FROM

ATLANTA

ATLANTA.SYR.EDU

Issue 11 | OCTOBER 5, 2015

Save the date!

Gary Radke to speak at the High

Sunday, November 1, 2015

High Museum of Art

1280 Peachtree Street NE, Atlanta

Join Gary Radke '73, professor emeritus of art history at Syracuse's College of Arts and Sciences, for a gallery talk exploring Habsburg Splendor: Masterpieces from Vienna's Imperial Collections. The exhibition runs October 18, 2015–January 17, 2016, and brings masterworks amassed by one of the longest reigning European dynasties to Atlanta. Open to the public. Get details.

Alumni profile

Meet Reggie Acloque '99

Reginald “Reggie” Acloque '99 began life in New York City, the youngest of four children born to Haitian parents who divided their time between the islands of Haiti and Manhattan. While Acloque spent most of his formative years in Port-au-Prince, he graduated from high school in New York before heading upstate to attend Syracuse University, where for the first time in his life he was exposed to the exciting potential of computer technology. Read more.

In the News

A warm SU welcome for Atlanta's newest students

On July 21, the Syracuse University Alumni Club of Atlanta held the 2015 New Student Send-Off. The newest class of SU students and their families gathered at the home of SU parents Vicki and Gerald Benjamin, where they got to know some recent graduates from the Atlanta area and met fellow classmates.

Empowered by education

Dulce Gallo-Blanco '17 was 11 years old when she and her family moved to Atlanta from a small coastal town near Acapulco, Mexico. She spoke no English, but learned quickly—by the time she graduated high school, she was class valedictorian. One of eight children, Gallo-Blanco dreamed of being the first in her family to attend college. Read more.

SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY | ATLANTA

820 Comstock Avenue, Syracuse, New York, 13244-5040